Government Taking Bass Spawn.

H. P. Baldwin is working for the U. S. Fisheries department of gathering spawn from the spawning beds of black bass in Crystal lake. These beds are now marked with government markers and all persons are warned not to fish or disturb water in vicinity of these markers as there is a heavy fine for doing so. Mr. Dinsmore of the department writes: "Regarding our purpose at Crystal lake, we hope from year to year to secure young bass fry from the nests the wild fish make in the lake, and in return for taking these fish we aim to furnish liberally fish for stocking of such species as public sentiment demands. Your people seem to want lake trout for this lake, and we are rearing this year a large number of fingerlings, a great portion of which will be shipped to the lake later. If sportsmen are interested and care to co-operate in this work to the extent of arranging some artificial nursery ponds on some of the inlets I should be very glad to take the matter up with them."

Do Your Part.

Don't forget to do YOUR part in fighting the deadly housefly by spraying with kerosene oil or other preparation all places where they are found, especially the small flies on the barn windows. It may save sickness and death later.

School Meeting a Quiet One.

About 80 voters were present at the annual school meeting held in Alumni hall, in the old school building, Friday evening. The old list of officers was re-elected as follows: F. W. Baldwin, moderator; J. A. Pearson, clerk; F. D. Pierce, treasurer; George Jennings, collector; E. W. Barron, C. A. Barrows and H. T. Seaver, auditors, and Wallace H. Gilpin was re-elected a trustee for three years. C. E. Hamblet resigned and J. F. Batchelder was elected in his place, making the board, J. A. Pearson, Mr. Batchelder and Mr. Gilpin. The article regarding medical inspection in our schools was passed over. A tax of 90 cents was raised, the same as last year.

VERMONT BOYS IN TEXAS

Eagle Pass Reached Saturday by Vermont Troops. Well and Happy. Travel Life. No War Immediately.

The Vermont regiment destined for Eagle Pass, Texas, which was on its way last week, reached its destination Sunday and went into camp. All were well.

It was a great send-off Vermont gave her first regiment on its leave for the scene of the Mexican troubles. Every town along the line of departure had its assembly of cheering citizens, every farmhouse a flag and a group of waving occupants, hands waved good luck from every vehicle on the highways. It was much appreciated by the boys on the crowded trains and did much to keep up their courage.

There was no complaint from the men of the rigors of troop-train traveling. They were in common coaches, a man to a seat. At night they doubled up, laid three boards across the two seats and rolled themselves in a blanket on the boards. Not very soft, those boards, but a man could stretch on them. In a baggage car loaded with equipment and provisions were two camp stoves installed in beds of sand. Here coffee was boiled, canned beans warmed, sometimes corned beef, which were carried in pots shaped like wash boilers into the company cars. Officers and men shave alike and each one washed his own kit of utensils.

At Binghampton, N. Y., the train took on a shoe car. It was an ordinary baggage car, with boxes of military shoes and stockings around the sides. The men were sent by squads to this car and made to wash their feet, which were then examined by the surgeons and plastered where necessary. Each man then drew a good pair of shoes and two pairs of stockings.

The spirit of the men could not have been better. They made some noise, but it was of a healthy kind. Each company had its cheer and they varied with each other in responses to the greetings from every town we passed.

Chaplain Thomas (President Thomas of Middlebury college) in writing the Middlebury Register of the trip says in speaking of Company L of Newport: "The seniors, to whom I gave a diploma a year ago, is a member of this company, and Cole, who was a year in Middlebury, is a corporal."

Company L showed their state loyalty by their yell,— Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah for old Vermont!

Of the states from sea to sea, Vermont, she is the state for me. No immediate trouble with Mexico is expected since Carranza has returned the captured U. S. soldiers. The boys are drilling and getting acclimated.

The 1st Vermont infantry was complimented by Gen. B. H. Green on the way it had laid out its camp. Special care was taken in sanitary precautions and the camp gave evidence that it would be a model.

Eagle Pass is one of the important points on the Rio Grande river, being a short distance north of Fort Duncan, and opposite the Mexican town of Piedras Negras. It is 500 miles south-east of El Paso, and about 300 miles from the mouth of the Rio Grande. It is also 275 miles due east of the city of Chihuahua, north of which the Mexicans are gathering to resist the American forces coming from the north.

Eagle Pass has about 5,000 inhabitants in normal times, and it is located in a coal-mining, wool-growing and stock-raising district. Its railroad connections make it an important trading center and during the Civil war it enjoyed a large traffic.

T. Roy and family, Mr. and Mrs. Adelard Roy and Fred Chabot and family are visiting friends in Quebec.

Miss Laila Hawkins is working for Miss Harriet Austin and Miss Leda Hawkins at Clyde Nutting's in Westmore.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Carpenter and little daughter of St. Johnsbury were guests at C. E. Hamblet's the last of the week.

Loving Cup for Mason S. Stone.

W. C. McGinnis of North Troy, Miss Margaret Kelley of Derby, Harvey Bankard of East Barnet, and M. E. Daniels of Lyndonville, representing the union superintendents, who have been employed in recent years by Commissioner of Education Mason S. Stone, arrived in Montpelier Saturday morning in an automobile and presented to him on behalf of the superintendents a large loving cup. The cup stands over 20 inches high and was suitably engraved, it being so large that Mr. and Mrs. Stone could not carry it with them and left it in charge of friends. It is engraved, "To Mason S. Stone, Vermont's First Commissioner of Education; from the Superintendents." It is sterling silver and gold-lined and about six inches across the top.

That Barton is favored with visitors from other localities frequently, is shown by the fact that one day last week, there were present and making purchases in the Lang store at the same time people from West Burke,

FATAL AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT.

Francis, the little two and a half years old son of Dr. and Mrs. F. R. Hastings of Barton, was fatally injured while driving with his father on the May pond road, Friday afternoon about 3 o'clock. Dr. Hastings with Francis, left his two daughters, Marjorie and Dorothy, at the beach on May shore, intending to make a call on a patient in the May pond district. The road near the schoolhouse is quite narrow with a ditch on either side and recent rains have filled it with ruts. In an attempt to steer the car out of a rut, the steering lever at one wheel was broken and the car went into the ditch where it was thrown on its side. In falling, Francis was caught and named underneath. Without help the doctor was able to lift the car and get the baby from under it and from a nearby house telephone to Fred Richmond for assistance. Mr. Richmond came at once and in only a few minutes the baby was back in its mother's arms at home, but internal injuries proved fatal and the child died in about half an hour after reaching home.

The funeral services were held at the home on Sunday and were private, neither Mrs. Hastings or the doctor being present. The funeral was held at the home, but internal injuries proved fatal and the child died in about half an hour after reaching home.
